RECENT WEDDINGS

Reynolds—Bassett

Relatives and friends in Bellefonte last week received word of the marriage of Philip D. Reynolds, son of Col. W. Fred Reynolds, of Bellefonte, and Miss Catherine Bassett, of 1220 N. State Park, Chicago, Ill. The wedding took place last Thursday at the City Hall in Chicago. Mr. Reynolds, well known throughout the Bellefonte vicinity, left here about a year and a half ago to accept a position as one of the officials of a new zoo being established just outside of Chicago. Previous to that time he was employed by the Whiterock Quarries. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds are expected to visit Mr. Reynolds' father here within the next few weeks.

neral services were conducted at the Advent church by the Rev. M. C. Piper, of Milesburg. Interment was made in the Advent cemetery. The sole survivor, in addition to the sister in Greenville, Ill., is another sister, Mrs. William McKinley, of Port Matilda. Mrs. Zimmerman was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

REYNOLDS:—The many Bellefonte friends of Samuel Henry Reynolds were saddened to learn of his death at his home on West Linn Street at 5:30 o'clock on Sunday morning. Although Mr. Reynolds had been in failing health for the past number of years, suffering acutely from asthma, his condition was not regarded as serious until the latter part of last week when he became bed-fast. The deceased was a native of Lancaster, having been born there on April 13, 1866, and making his age at time of death 69 years, 5 months and 5 days. He was a son of Samuel Henry Reynolds, former prominent Lancaster attorney, and Mary Fordney Reynolds, deceased. He attended the Cheltenham Academy in Philadelphia, and on November 12, 1890, was united in marriage with Susan Eberman, of Lancaster, who survives. For many years Mr. Reynolds was engaged in the lumber and banking businesses in Lancaster, but was forced to retire some years ago on account of his health. In 1928 he came to Bellefonte, where he has made his home ever since, although every fall he and Mrs. Reynolds went to Miami, Florida, where they remained until spring to escape the rigors of Centre County's winters. Surviving, in addition to his widow, are a son and daughter: Samuel H. Reynolds, Jr., of New York City, and Mrs. Hugh M. Quigley, of Bellefonte, and a brother and two sisters: Col. W. Fred Reynolds, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. C. E. Montgomery and Mrs. William B. Waterman, of Providence, R. I. The remains were prepared for burial and were taken to Lancaster, where on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock services were held in the St. James Episcopal church, with the Rev. Dr. Clifford G. Twombly, rector of the church, officiating. Mr. Reynolds had been a vestryman in St. James church for more than 30 years. Interment was made in the Wood Hill cemetery. To his many local friends Mr. Reynolds was known familiarly as "Major," the title having been given him as a mark of the high esteem in which he was held in this community.

REYNOLDS-COOK

Col. W. Frederick Reynolds, one of Bellefonte's leading citizens and Miss Grace Cook, daughter of the late Claude Cook, and Mrs. Cook, of East Curtin Street, were united in marriage at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in the Presbyterian church, Bellefonte. The pastor of that congregation, the Rev. Don W. Carruthers, of State College, was the officiating clergyman.

The ceremony was marked by its simplicity. Only a few relatives and intimate friends were present, and the bridal couple had no attendants. Upon leaving the church, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds departed at once for a wedding trip, their destination being indefinite. Upon their return to Bellefonte they will reside at Col. Reynolds' palatial home at the corner of Allegheny and Linn Streets.

BAY SHORE, L. I., June 8.—Dr. Henry S. King, director of Dr. King's Hospital at Bay Shore, who has delivered more than 10,000 babies during the last thirty-five years, including many triplets, delivered quadruplets for the first time on Monday, and promptly whacked the mother and children over the head with an oak club, killing all five. The mother was a sand shark, who had been landlocked in a small pool of water on the beach by the tide.

It was Dr. King's first obstetrical case in a year, as he has been on a leave of absence to rest up, and he had no idea of working when he left his cottage on Fire Island to walk along the beach and watch the French liner Normandie come into sight. After watching the ships pass, he walked around to the Great South Bay side of the island, and there came upon the shark, swimming sluggishly about in the small pool.

The mother-to-be, commonly called a dogfish, was about four feet long, and tagging along in her wake was a smaller shark about ten inches long. Dr. King, recalling that dogfish are rather destructive, eating their weight in smaller fish every twenty-four hours, decided to put it out of business, so he took a good swing with the oak club he carries as a walking stick and landed squarely on its head.

Not certain as to the success of his blow, he struck the club experimentally into the shark's mouth, and the fish closed its jaws and hung on. This proved its undoing, for Dr. King immediately hauled it from the pool out onto the sand. The smaller shark continued to swim about in the pool, a little bewildered.

Dr. King was contemplating another swing with his club when the adult shark snorted and went into convulsions. Before he could make up his mind what to do another small shark had joined the group. Dr. King shouted for two of his nurses, who are passing the summer with him, but by the time they arrived two more small sharks had put in an appearance.

The nurses, Miss Frances T. Maher, superintendent at Dr. King's Hospital, and Miss Ruth Kahler, operating room nurse, were quite excited by the case and hurried back to the bungalow to obtain a camera. They returned, however, to find that Dr. King had been busy with his club again. The mother and her four offspring were lined up on the sand, all quite dead.

The nurses took pictures of the group and several neighbors arrived as additional witnesses, but the next day, when more friends came to see the bodies, only the mother remained. Dr. King had tossed the babies into the shallow water, and crabs and eels had done away with them.

The doctor will continue his vacation for the rest of the summer, handling only similar emergency cases.
